Celebrate May Day in Cuba with 1 million Cubans

The US National Network on Cuba is promoting US participation in a 2 week International Solidarity Brigade in Cuba from Sunday April 26 to Sunday May 10.

The highlights of the program include participation in the May Day event in Havana's Revolution Square alongside 1 million Cubans.

Participants will principally stay at the Julio Antonio Mella International Camp (CIJAM) in the countryside 30 miles west of Havana, but 3 nights will be in a hotel in the western Cuban province of Pinar del Rio.

Through visits in Pinar del Rio, Havana city, and the rural area west of Havana, participants will gain a wider awareness of Cuba's current reality and the transformations taking place in the island as part of the process of updating the economic model designed to strengthen its socialist project. Brigadistas will visit places of historic, social and cultural interest, will receive lectures on up-to-date topics about the Cuban Revolution and exchange ideas and experiences with representatives from different political and mass organizations, including workers and trade union leaders. The time at the Camp will include some mornings of light agricultural and other voluntary work for varied abilities.

The full program is available at: <http://nnoc.info/mayday-brigade-program/>

The cost of the whole package within Cuba is $725. This includes: accommodation in shared rooms up to 8 people (in the case of Julio Antonio Mella International Camp); double or triple rooms (depending on availability at the hotel) in Pinar del Rio; with full board (all three meals); airport transfers (in-out), the Cuban visa and transportation to all the activities included in the program. This cost must be paid through the travel agency Marazul tours who will be receiving the applications.

Participants can arrange their own return airline ticket (which automatically includes Cuban health insurance), though the simplest option may well be to also do this through Marazul.

Registration is now open until March 27th 2020. Final payments for US applicants are expected no later than April 3rd 2020.

By joining the brigade its members are committed to comply with the proposed program and to observe properly the rules of behavior, discipline and social coexistence
